

Wednesday, December 10.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Rev. P. B. Lanham is attending the State Baptist convention in Bennettsville this week.

Mr. F. P. Walker, Jr., is representing the Grove lodge at the grand lodge in Charleston this week.

Look the list of contestants over and decide which one you want to help. Then get busy in her behalf.

Don't wait until the contest is about to close to help your favorite. Now is the time to get in effective work. Delays are dangerous.

Santa Claus can find toys, vases, cups and saucers, chinaware and novelties of all kinds at our store.

Danovant & Co.

Mr. Orlando Sheppard and Hon. B. E. Nicholson are in in Charleston attending the grand lodge, A. F. M., of South Carolina.

The fountain pen given by Timmons & Morgan was won by Miss Naomi Prescott. Second, Miss Edie Swearingen 15,000 extra votes and third Miss Essie Bussey 10,000 extra votes.

In making up your Xmas list don't forget that box of Huylers. Xmas tide is Huylers time.

W. E. Lynch & Co.

Miss Virginia Johnson who is teaching in Aiken county near Eureka came up and spent the weekend at home.

Purchase liberally of the Red Cross stamps for your Christmas packages. They are on sale at several stores in Edgefield.

We have a full line of fireworks for Christmas and New Year.

Penn & Holstein.

Mr. J. G. Holland was elected warden of the 5th ward Monday to fill the vacancy made by the death of Mr. J. U. Rives.

Danovant & Co.

Mrs. J. H. Thompson of Southport, N. C., is here visiting her mother, Mrs. Kate Butler.

Mr. C. R. Dobson, accompanied by his mother and sisters, spent Friday in Augusta, making these trips in his automobile.

The contest manager has decided to discontinue the free ballots for the present. The coupon does not appear in the paper this week.

Mrs. Mamie N. Tillman, as vice-president of the western division, attended a meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Aiken association which was held at Langley Saturday.

Mr. G. C. Johnson now occupies the residence in Buncombe where Mr. W. C. Jackson formerly resides. Buncombe extends a cordial welcome to this estimable family.

Dr. M. D. Jeffries and Rev. John Lake left early Monday morning for Bennettsville to attend the annual South Carolina Baptist convention.

Children, Santa Claus is coming with a bigger bunch than ever. No doubt about that.

The Advertiser's contest will run three more weeks and the work that is done in that time will determine who will win the handsome piano and the other valuable prizes on New Year's day.

The favorable comment upon the splendid piano, the grand prize in the Advertiser's contest, has been most gratifying. The instrument has a very sweet tone and is constructed in the best manner, which will enable the happy winner to have music in the home for 10, 15 or 25 years, owing to the care that he takes of the instrument. It can be seen at the Timmons & Morgan rug store.

Seed rye, seed barley, seed oats, seed wheat, vetch.

Wedding Presents.

We have a fine assortment of glass, gold and silver, suitable for wedding presents. We are now having a sale to select from our prices are very low.

Penn & Holstein.

Voting In Popularity Contest Will Be Lively From Now On.

If You Want The Capital Prize You Must Not Loaf.

If you are to win one of the handsome prizes you must feather your nest with extra votes. This is good and timely advice. If you mean to be a winner, extra votes are the thing that makes winning easy. A splendid chance for four of the contestants to win extra votes expires Tuesday, December 16, at 4 p. m.

Special Offer.

Commencing Tuesday, December 9, and ending Tuesday, December 16, to the contestant turning in the most money for subscriptions, job work or advertising we will give 25,000 extra votes, second largest amount will receive 15,000 extra votes, third largest amount 10,000 and fourth largest amount 5,000. If any two contestants tie on this week's offer votes will be given to both.

Everybody has an equal chance in this race the field is open to all. It is a fair field and no favors and if you continue in the race right up to the last moment you may be agreeably surprised on the last day. Talk contest everywhere you go and pay no attention to any rumors you hear as to what others are doing. Do a certain amount of work each day and ask everyone you meet for subscriptions, job work or advertising. You have just as good a chance to win as any of the other contestants if you make up your mind to get busy.

The interest in the contest is not confined to contestants alone. The various friends and relatives of the contestants are calling at the office and renewing their subscriptions also turning in coupons for their favorite contestants. To those who are in arrears it should be a pleasure to them to have one of the fair contestants call for their arrears and renewals. When they respond cheerfully and take a subscription to The Advertiser they know they will get value received for their money.
